EASY READS release notes

April 17, 2023

These release notes go over new features and/or new aspects of EasyReads.

What's new in EasyReads

Register
- Created a register page that is accessible from the homepage, where you can create an account simply with inputting a username and password to which you can access instantly everything else on EasyReads, and have it customizable to you.

Login
- Created a login page that is accessible from the homepage that you can input your username and password that you created previously from the register page, if you forgot to register you can instantly go to the login page from the register page.

- After logging in with your previous info, all the previous session info (if any) will be restored and you can jump right back into what you were working on!

Profile view
- After registering and/or logging into your account you can view your profile with a touch of a button through our menu.

- There you will be able to view numerous different things that are attached to your personal account.

Book view
- The ability to browse through a series of categories to find books that you can read and annotate as you go along.

Class Notes view
- Go through and narrow down your search to find specific class notes that you are searching for and be able to mark important text within them.

Annotation implementation
- Mark any amount of text and add it to your annotations for specific books or class notes.
